Jun: Do you have any plans this weekend?

Rika: There's a culture festival at my brother's university. All the different clubs will be performing.

Jun: That sounds fun. Is your brother performing, too?

Rika: Yeah, he's in the jazz band. My parents and I are going to watch him. You should come with us on Saturday.

Jun: I'd love to, but we're visiting my grandparents. It's really far from here, so we won't be back until late. Are you going on Sunday, too?

Rika: No, his group only plays on Saturday.

Jun: I'm sorry I have to miss it. You're graduating this year, right? Do you think you'll join the jazz band at his university?

Rika: No. I'm going to go to a different university from him. We did play together last year in high school, though.

Jun: That's right. I forgot that you wanted to move away when you go to college.

Rika: I hope I can. Anyway, my high school band will be playing next month. You should come see us then.
